XVII. INTRODUCTION

This document includes Academic Standards for Economics that describe what students should know and be able to do in four areas:

- ◇ 6.1. Scarcity and Choice
- ◇ 6.2. Markets and Economic Systems
- ◇ 6.3. Functions of Government
- ◇ 6.4. Economic Interdependence
- ◇ 6.5. Income, Profit, and Wealth

The Economic Standards describe what students should know and be able to do from third through twelfth grade. They reflect the increasing complexity and sophistication that students are expected to achieve as they progress through school. The document attempts to avoid repetition and to show a progression across grade levels. Topics and concepts in Economics directly relate to Environment and Ecology Standard (4.2) and Geography Standard (7.3). In addition, economic topics can be found in Career and Work Standard (13.2, 13.3, and 13.4). As a social science, Economics Standards should be integrated with related Civics and Government, Geography and History Standards to create an interdisciplinary view of the world.

Economics is concerned with the behavior of individuals and institutions engaged in the production, exchange and consumption of goods and services. As technology helps to reshape the economy, knowledge of how the world works is critical. People entering the workforce cannot function effectively without a basic knowledge how scarcity and choice affect the allocation of resources, how markets establish prices and the global nature of economic interdependence. These standards are intended to provide direction in learning how economic activity impacts the forces of everyday life.

The Academic Standards for Economics consist of four standard categories (designated as 6.1, 6.2, 6.3, and 6.4). Each category has a number of standard statements designated by a capital letter. The standard statements represent essential strands that reflect increased rigor across grade levels. These standard statements identify broad topics; the choice of specific content is a local decision as is the method of instruction.

Economics, along with Civics and Government, Geography and History are identified as Social Studies in Chapter 4. This identification is consistent with citizenship education in Chapter 49 and Chapter 354. Based on these regulations, social studies/citizenship programs should include four sets of standards into curriculum and planned instruction.

A glossary is included to assist the reader in clarifying terminology contained in the standards.

XVIII. GLOSSARY

Capital Resources:	The physical equipment used in the production of goods and services.
Comparative Advantage:	Economic theory that a country/individual should sell goods and services which it can produce at relatively lower costs and buy goods and services which it can produce at relatively higher costs .
Competition:	The rivalry among people and/or business firms for resources and/or consumers.
Consumer:	One who buys or rents goods or services and uses them.
Corporation:	A business firm that is owned by stockholders and is a legal entity with rights to buy, sell, and make contracts. Its chief advantage is that each owner's liability is limited to the amount of money he or she has invested in the company.
Cost:	What is given up when a choice is made; monetary and/or non monetary.
Demand:	The different quantities of a resource, good, or service that potential buyers are willing and able to purchase at various prices during a specific time period.
Depression:	A severe recession in terms of magnitude and/or length.
Division of Labor:	A method of organizing production whereby each worker specializes in part of the productive process.
Economic Systems:	The way societies organize to determine what goods and services should be produced, how goods and services should be produced and who will consume goods and services. Examples include traditional, command and market.
Economics:	The study of the behavior of individuals and institutions engaged in the production, distribution and consumption of goods and services.
